INDEX TO VOLUME CXVII.

Abbe, R. General consideration of the surgical treatment of empyema, 15.

Abdominal Surgery. The surgery of the abdomen, illustrated by eight cases, Cheever, D. W., 6, 12; laparotomy for pus in the abdominal cavity and for peritonitis, Irish, J. C., 145; a series of intra-abdominal operations, Richardson, M. H., 225, 230; gun-shot wounds of the abdomen, Parkes, C. T., 239; an experimental contribution to intestinal surgery, with especial reference to the treatment of intestinal obstruction, Senn, N., 239; three hundred and eighty-four laparotomies for various diseases, Homans, J., 263; an important point connected with abdominal surgery, Hewson, A., 264; when is colotomy justifiable, Mathews, J. M., 264; discussion of papers on abdominal surgery, 265; three cases of laparo-nephrotomy, Maclain, D., 266; gun-shot wounds of the abdomen, Manley, T. H., 310; a stab-wound of the abdomen, Formad, H. F., 337; abdominal tumors, Homans, J., 361; symptoms indicating injury of the abdominal organs: recovery under medical treatment, Packard, J. H., 445; laparotomy for tubercular peritonitis, 517.

Abdominal Supporter. A new form of abdominal supporter, Debaker, F., 263.

Abscess. Report of some cases of liver-abscess and their treatment, Grant, 286; the treatment of psoas abscess by posterior lumbar incision, Sayre, L. H., 286.

Actinomycosis. Actinomycosis in a woman, Hoeffner, 565.

Addison's Disease. Cases of Addison's disease, Davidson, 542.

Advertising. Advertising champagne, 639.

Agoraphobia. A case of agoraphobia, Blodgett, A. N., 407, 409.

Albuminuria. Albuminuria in health, Stewart, G., 94; separation of the retina in both eyes with albuminuria of pregnancy, Wadsworth, O. F., 184; pathology of albuminuria, Semmola, M., 261.

Alcohol. Alcohol again: a consideration of recent misstatements of its physiological action, Warren, J. W., 1, 25; the disease of inebriety and its treatment, Crothers, T. D., 260; alcohol as an anæsthetic, Link, J. E., 313.

Alexander's Operation, Dolores, 334.

Allen, G. W. Cases of urethral endoscopy, 530, 537; cases of urethral endoscopy treated by electrolysis, 621, 630.

Amidon, R. W. Nervous symptoms from ocular defects; their relief by mechanical and medicinal measures, 497.

Amputation. Amputation at the hip-joint for the removal of a malignant growth, sarcoma, Dennis, F. S., 268, 286; when should amputation be practised, and when should other methods be employed? Lynde, U. C., 339; if amputation is to be performed, at what point should it be made to render the stump most useful, the risks to be encountered being equal? Bryant, J. D., 339.

Anæmia. A contribution to the study of pernicious anæmia, 90.

Anæsthesia. Alcohol as an anæsthetic, Link, J. E., 213; anæsthesia in normal labor, Kingman, R. A., 457.

Anatomy. Recent progress in anatomy, Dwight, T., 430.

Andrews, E. The removal of sequestra by solution in acid, 286.

Aneurism. A dissecting mesenteric aneurism, Whittier, E. N., 446.

Ankle-Joint. Discussion on the management of compound dislocation of the ankle-joint, Moore, E. M., 339; question of amputation, Lynde, U. C., 339; point of election, Bryant, J. D., 339; reduction of luxation, Brown, C. W., 339; dressing and after-treatment, Dennis, F. S., 339.

Annus Medicus, MDCCCLXXXVII, 631.

Antipyrine and Antifebrin. Antipyrine as an analgesic, 291; discussion upon the use of antipyrine and antifebrin in nervous disease, 413; antipyrine in sea-sickness, 516; the analgesic effects of antipyrine, Root, R. B., 558; poisoning from antifebrin, Bauer, F. M., 564.

Antiseptics. A brief note on the use of antiseptics in private obstetrical practice, Parvin, T., 385.

Aorta. A case of calcification of the aorta, Taylor, F. W., 578.

Aphasia without paralysis, Robinson, B., 510.

Aphorism. Medical aphorisms, 518.

Apostoli, G. The technique and treatment of uterine fibromata by electrolysis, 362.

Army Hospital Corps, 414.

Arnold, A. Fatty and dilated heart, 263.

Arnold, A. B. The practice of medicine at the present day, 238.

Arsenic. A case of poisoning from arsenical wall-paper, 476, 480.

Assaky (Bucharest). Iodol, 287.

Athlete. Professor Sargent on the athlete, 439.

Atkinson, I. E. A clinical study of erysipelas in children, 232.

Austin Farm and the Suffolk County Insane, 540.

Ayer, J. B. Septicæmia from purulent inflammation of the portal vein (suppurative pylephlebitis), 536.

Bacillus. The death-point of micro-organisms, Sternberg, G. M., 94; bacteriology and its therapeutical relations, Semmola, 237; the cancer bacillus, 588; the discussion of the cancer bacillus before the Berlin Medical Society, 612; Scheurlen's cancer, 614.

Bacteria. Bacteriology and its therapeutical relations, Semmola, 237; antagonism among bacteria, Garré, C., 518.

Bantock, G. G. The treatment of the pedicle in supra-vaginal hysterectomy, 336, 363.

Barker, F. Address of welcome, 288.

Barnes, H. J. Milk-supply, 82.

Base-Ball. Injuries of base-ball players, Leuf, A. H. P., 69.

Battey, R. Battey's operation: its matured results, 384.

Bauer, F. M. Poisoning from antifebrin, 564.

Bayard, T. F. Address at International Medical Congress, 235.

Bell, A. N. The condition of the New York Quarantine indefensible, 519.

Benson, S. Fistula in ano of the horse-shoe variety, 285.

Benton, S. H. Antithermics in neuralgic pains, 560.

Bergeon. Clinical notes on Bergeon's treatment of chronic disease of the lung and air-passages by medicated gaseous enemata, Kinnicutt, F. P., 35.

Berlin. Letter from Berlin, 466.

Besnier. A case of purulent puerperal peritonitis successfully treated by puncture, 465.

Bibliography. American Gynæcological Society, transactions, 209; American Laryngological Association, transactions of eighth annual meeting, 63; Association of American Physicians, transactions, 1886, 18; same, 1887, 609; Anderson, T. McC., a treatise on diseases of the skin, 41; Bar, Paul, the principles of antiseptic methods applied to obstetric practice, 631; Barnes, R., and Barnes, F., a system of obstetric medicine and surgery, theoretical and clinical, 485; Bartholow, R., medical electricity: a practical treatise on the applications of electricity to medicine and surgery, 209; Bastin, E. S., elements of botany, 63; Bartholomew, J. P., food adulteration, and its detection with photomicrographic plates and a bibliographical appendix, 513; Boston City Hospital, annual report, 368; Butler, John S., the curability of insanity, and the individualized treatment of the insane, 630; Charcot, J. M., leçons sur les maladies du système nerveux, faites à la salpêtrière, 43; Charpentier, A., a cyclopædia of obstetrics and gynæcology: the four volumes on obstetrics, 585; Cutler, C. W., differential diagnosis of the diseases of the skin, for students and practitioners, 513; Doran, A. H. G., handbook of gynæcological operations, 537; Dowse, T. S., the modern treatment of disease by the system by massage, 461; Dujardin-Beaumetz, Prof., the modern treatment of diseases of the heart, Part II, 630; Field, H. M., evacuant medication, 437; Galabin, A. L., a manual of midwifery, 537; Gilbert, A., cancer massif du foie, 41; Goodell, W., lessons on gynæcology, 512; Hagar, A., Kaltenbach R., Winckel, F., and Breisky, A., cyclopædia of obstetrics and gynæcology, 365; Hartmann, A., the diseases of the ear and their treatment, 163; index catalogue, volume eight, 367; Jackson, G. T., a practical treatise on the diseases of the hair and scalp, 460; James, F. L., elementary microscopical technology, 163; Keating, J. M., practical lessons in nursing, 41; Keyt, A. T., sphygmography and cardiography, 340; King, A. F. A., a manual of obstetrics, 209; Kiebs, E., die allgemeine pathologie oder die lehre von den uresachen und dem wesen die Krankenheits processe, 162; Ladd, G. T., elements of physiolgical pathology 65; Mann, M.D., editor, a system of gynæcology by American authors, 341; Marine Hospital Service, annual report, 612; Massachusetts, eighteenth annual report of the Board of Health, 163; Massachusetts, vital statistics for 1886, 391; Murrell, W., massage as a mode of treatment, 437; Otis, W. J., anatomical research in the human rectum, and a new method of rectal inspection, 366; Pepper, W., editor, a system of practical medicine by American authors, 64; Robinson, T., the diagnosis and treatment of eczema, 513; Sanné, a treatise on diphtheria, historically and practically considered, including croup, tracheotomy, and intubation, 63; Sutton, J. B., ligaments: their nature and morphology, 64; Teisel, H. von, and Teisel, M. von, outlines of the pathology and treatment of syphilis and allied venereal diseases, 63; Thin, G., pathology and treatment of ringworm, 585; United States Pharmacopœia, dose and price labels, 113.

Bigelow, H. R. Carlsbad, 121, 148; Scheurlen's cancer bacillus, 614.

Biggs, H. M. Ruptured aortic aneurism, 208.

Biography. Allen, G. O., 372; Bogg, J. S., 72; Bird, G., 515; Carnochan, J. M., 442; Carr, A. F., 616; Chamberlain, W. M., 464; Clark, A., 296, 346; Cook, H., 394; Dana, D., 592; Drake, E. W., 24; Fassett, O. W., 120; French, J. O., 348; Hackett, C. W., 24; Hopkins, M., 68; Hutchinson, J. C., 93, 348; Hyde, F., 544; Knight, J., 442; Laugenbeck, R. K. von, 444; Linsley, J., 68; McArthur, J. A., 348; McGowan, C. E., 492; O'Gorman, 489; Parker, D. M., 372, 616; Putnam, S., 192; Quain, R., 372; Rossie, M. M., 21; Scott, J., 333, Smith, J. M., 616; Spring, C. H., 592; Stickney, P. D. B., 468; Tanner, N. B., 544; Ware, C. E., 244, 294; Waterman, J. H., 544; Webb, J. P., 296; Wilde, J., 396.

Blandford, G. F. The treatment of recent cases of insanity in asylums and private houses, 259.

Blodgett, A. N. An accident with cocaine, 282; a case of agoraphobia, 407, 409; antipyrine in case of carcinoma, 456; new instruments, 483.

Blood. The morphology of rheumatic blood, Cutter, E., 261.

Blue Color. Analysis of one hundred and forty-one cases of pregnancy, with reference to the diagnostic value of the blue color of the vagina, Farlow, J. W., 49, 58.

Boland, E. S. Symptoms following injury to the head and back, 450, 458.

Bone. A new method of operations on bone, Roberts, M. L., 311; the bones of the leg considered as one apparatus, Dwight, T., 593.

Boston. Table of fees in Boston in 1785, 516.

Bowditch, V. Y. Oxygen treatment in pneumonia, 582.

Boyland, G. H. Excessive heat the exciting cause of tuberculosis, 191.

Bozeman, N. A case of cystitis treated by colpo-uretro-cystotomy, irrigation of pelvis of the kidney, and intra-vaginal drainage, 340.
Brackett, E. G. The experimental value of the Dowse splint, 321, 360.
Bradford, E. H., and Lovett, H. W. Report on progress in orthopedic surgery, 503.
Brain. Operations on the brain, Horsley, V., 46.
Breast. A case of tumor of the breast, Mixter, S. J., 328, 359.
Bronson, E. B. Classification of diseases of the skin, 282.
Brooklyn, N. Y. Small-pox in Brooklyn: defective isolation and defective vaccination, North, N. L., 388.
Brown, C. W. Compound dislocation at the ankle-joint, 339.
Brown, D. Statistical records of intubation, 86; fatal case of vesical calculi, 583.
Brown, D. R. The treatment of pulmonary phthisis by the pneumatic cabinet, with a report of cases, 545.
Bryant, J. D. If amputation is to be performed in compound dislocation at the ankle, at what point should it be made to render the stump most useful, the risks to be encountered being equal? 339; how can the profession aid the Board of Health? 483.
Buckler, T. H. Excessive summer heat the exciting cause of tuberculosis, 118.
Buckley, L. D. Clinical notes on pruritus, 257.
Bull, C. S. Report of thirty-six cases of simple extraction of cataract without iridectomy, 108; the so-called orthopædic treatment of paralysis of the ocular muscles, 110.
Bullard, W. N. The relation of tea-drinking to disorders of the nervous system, 217.
Burjinsky. The dietetics of mustard and pepper, 542.
Burnett, C. H. The successful removal of an exostosis from the external auditory canal by a new method, 89.
Burnett, S. M. Clinical contributions to the study of ring scotoma, 109; a modification of the refraction ophthalmoscope, with an attachment for using cylindrical-lens glasses, 184.
Burney (St. Louis). Gastrotomy for foreign bodies in the œsophagus, 286.
Burns. The treatment of burns, 91; cases of burns, with special reference to complications, sequelæ, and treatment, Cleaves, J. E., 501.
Burrell, H. L. Fracture of the spine: its immediate treatment by rectification of the deformity and fixation by plaster-of-Paris jacket, 169; four months' experience in minor surgery at the Boston City Hospital, 297, 309.
Burrell, H. L. and Cushing, H. W. Report on progress in surgery, 379, 403.
Busey, S. C. Cystocolpocele complicating labor and pregnancy, 290.
Cabot, A. T. Foreign body in Wharton's duct, 606.
Cæsarean Section by the bison's horn, 418.
Call, E. L. A case of chronic pancreatitis, with symptoms resembling malignant disease, 576, 581.
Calculi. Fatal case of vesical calculi, Brown, D., 583.
Calculus in Syria, Post, G. E., 311.
Cancer. The parasitic origin of cancer, 562; the cancer bacillus, 588.
Canedy, F. J., Grinder's consumption, 198.
Carlsbad, Bigelow, H. R., 121, 148.
Carminatives and the absorption of gas by the intestines, 214.
Carnochan. Bony union after intra-capsular fracture of the neck of the femur, 310; congenital dislocation of the heads of the femora, 312.
Carroll, A. L. Discussion on typhoid fever, 364; the clinical significance of sphygmographic tracings, 559; dressing for greenstick fracture of the clavicle, 561.
Cascara Sagrada, and its use in the treatment of constipation, Farlow, J. W., 402, 408.
Chadwick, J. R. Ventral hernia after laparotomy, and its surgical treatment, 362.
Cheever, D. W. The surgery of the abdomen, illustrated by eight cases, 6, 12; osteo-sarcoma of the scapula, 12.
Chemistry. Report on local chemistry, Hills, W. B., 453.
Children. Spontaneous absorption in empyema in children, and the relative advantage in children of aspiration and early incision, Holt, L. E., 14; acute empyema in children, Huber, F., 14; the use of meat as a regular article of diet in the nursery, Putnam, C. P., 30, 36; the artificial feeding of infants, Rotch, T. M., 305; the infantile uterus, Johnstone, A. W., 384; the prevention of chronic disease among the children of New York City, Leale, C. A., 206; a contribution to the study of the etiology of the summer diarrhœa of infants, Haven, H. C., 221; a clinical study of erysipelas in children, Atkinson, I. E., 232; a review of some of the more important papers presented to the section of children's diseases of the Ninth International Congress, Smith, J. L., 434; pertussis and its treatment by resorcin, Moncorvo, 435; cerebral irritation of young children, particularly of infants at the breast, Simon, J., 435; præputial dilatation, St. Germain, 435; igni-puncture of the tonsils, St. Germain, 436; reflexes in newly-born children, Farago, J., 489; sour milk for babes, Smith, J., 490; report on diseases of children, Rotch, T. M., 551.
Childs. Address in obstetrics, 38.
Chlorosis. Sir Andrew Clark on the causes of chlorosis, 565.
Cholera at the Port of New York, 317.
Cholera Morbus. The causation and treatment of cholera morbus, 140.
Circulatory System. Ruptured heart and thrombosis of the coronary artery, Sawin, 37; dilatation of the right ventricle and its exploratory puncture, Schrötter, 70; ruptured aortic aneurism, Biggs, H. M., 208; fatty and dilated heart, Arnold, A., 263; report on progress in diseases of the chest, Shattuck, F. C., 278; elastic constriction of the neck, with exclusion of the trachea, as a means of controlling hæmorrhage in operations on the head, Senn, 312; notes on hæmorrhagic infarction, Osler, W., 325; thrombosis of the portal vein, Osler, W., 336; a gun-shot wound of the heart, Formad, H. F., 337; septicæmia from purulent inflammation of the portal vein, Ayer, J. B., 536; a case of calcification of the aorta, Taylor, F. W., 578; case of pericarditis with complications, Read, I. B., 584.
Cirrhosis. Can cirrhosis follow trauma? a case of medico-legal interest, Stuart, W. F., 76, 81; experimental researches on the production of alcoholic cirrhosis of the liver, 188,
Cisna, W. R. Typhoid fever, 261.
Clark, A. Resolutions on the late Alonzo Clark, M.D., 346.
Clark, A. Sir Andrew Clark on the causes of chlorosis, 565.
Clark, J. S. Disease in the milk-can, 100.
Clarke, J. W. An unusually rapid case of Graves's disease, 142.
Classification of diseases of the skin, Bronson, E. B., 282.
Clavicle. Dressing for greenstick fracture of the clavicle, Carroll, A. L., 561.
Cleaves, J. E. Cases of burns, with special reference to complications, sequelæ, and treatment, 501.
Club-Foot. Congenital talipes equino-varus, Scudder, C. L., 397, 424.
Cocaine. An accident with cocaine, Blodgett, A. N., 282.
Coe, H. C. The significance of pelvic pain, 511.
Cold. Methods of applying cold, 340; cold as a therapeutic agent, Hovey, B. L., 388.
Colorado Springs and Davos-Platz compared as health resorts Wagner, C., 458.
Colorado. Conditions favorable to out-of-door life in Colorado, Fish, S. A., 273; hints to physicians sending their consumptive patients to Colorado, Otis, E. O., 569, 579.
Colotomy. When is colotomy justifiable? Mathews, J. M., 264.
Colvin, D. Hæmorrhage in placenta prævia, 389.
Coma. A new means of detecting alcoholic and simulated states of coma, Wedekind, von, 294.
Congress. Congress of American Physicians and Surgeons, 417.
Consulting-Room. Dubray, 22.
Cook, C. H. Gall-stone, 410.
Cord. Spontaneous rupture of the cord, 142.
Corrosive sublimate in typhoid fever, Gläser, 46.
Creoline: a new disinfectant, Esmarch, F. von, 464.
Cronyn, J. Address on medicine, 387.
Croston, J. F. Local Boards of Health, 557.
Crothers, T. D. The disease of inebriety and its treatment, 260.
Cutaneous System. Treatment of diseases of the skin by medicated plasters, Shoemaker, J. V., 62; toxic effects of iodoform, Taylor, R. W., 231; a clinical study of erysipelas in children, Atkinson, I. E., 232; leucopathia unguium — a peculiar affection of the nails, Morison, A. B., 233; observation of three cases of simultaneous hand-and-foot disease, Hyde, J. N., 233; clinical notes on pruritus, Buckley, L. D., 257; clinical notes on pediculosis, Greenough, F. B., 257; an introduction to the study of the influence of diet on the causation and treatment of skin diseases, White, J. C., 258; the relations of dermatology to general medicine, Unna, P. G., 259; classification of diseases of the skin, Bronson, E. B., 282; the diagnosis of dermatitis herpetiformis, Duhring, L. H., 283; the treatment of leprosy, Unna, P. G., 283; the use of medicated rubber plasters in certain cutaneous diseases, Stelwagon, H. W., 284; salt in dermal hygiene and therapeutics, Piffard, H. G., 284; two cases of typical impetigo simplex, Duhring, L. H., 284; a case of purpura with circinate lesions, Stelwagon, H. W., 285; protest against excessive strength of local applications (officinal and others) in skin diseases, Sherwell, S., 285; the morbid changes and surgery of the nail, Foley, J. L., 301, 308; lupus serpiginosus of the cervix uteri and genitalia of women, Taylor, I. E., 338; report on dermatology, Tilden, G. H., 531.
Cutler, E. G. Three cases of dyspepsia, 252, 255.
Cutter, E. The morphology of rheumatic blood, 261.
Cystitis. A case of cystitis treated by colpo-uretro cystotomy, irrigation of the pelvis of the kidney, and intra-vaginal drainage, Bozeman, N., 340.
Dana. On a case of anencephalitis illustrating the sensory tract, 185.
Dana (New York). Hereditary tremor, 134.
Davenport, B. F. Report upon food, drugs, and their examination, 33; tempora mutantur, 118; gleditschine-stenocarpine, 442; report on foods, drugs, and their adulterations, 622.
Davenport, F. H. Uterine hæmorrhage: a consideration of some of the less common causes and their treatment, 124, 132; report of progress in gynæcology, 200.
Davidson. Cases of Addison's disease, 542.
Davis, G. W. The importance of early recognition, diagnosis, and surgical treatment of tumors of the bladder, 193.
Davis, N. S. Address at International Medical Congress, 236.
Davos-Platz. Colorado Springs and Davos-Platz compared as health resorts, Wagner, C., 458.
Dead Failure, limited, Garraway, E., 370.
Deafness. Is there a congenital sound-deafness? 586; word-deafness, 587.
Death by decapitation, 166.
Debaker, F. A new form of abdominal supporter, 263.
Dennis, F. S. Report of an amputation at the hip-joint for the removal of a malignant growth, sarcoma, 268, 286; dressing and after-treatment in compound dislocation of the ankle-joint, 339.
Dentistry. Progress in dentistry, Rollins, W. H., 9.
Dercum (Philadelphia). Two cases of hemichorea associated with Bright's disease, 160.
De Keuyter (Berlin). The action of iodoform, 40.
Devaiz. On the communicability of typhoid fever through the air, 190.
Diabetes, Pavy, F. W., 261.
Didama, H. D. Methods of applying cold, 340.
Diet. An introduction to the study of the influence of diet in the causation and treatment of skin diseases, White, J. C., 258.
Digestive System. Progress in dentistry, Rollins, W. H., 9; on the neurotic treatment of summer diarrhœa and cholera infantum, Harkins, A., 32; enterostomy for congenital atresia of the ilium, Tischendorff, 41; treatment of infantile dyspepsia by lactic acid: the causation of the greenish discharges which characterize this affection, 44; the causation and treatment of cholera morbus, 140; sepsis and antisepsis in summer diarrhœa, Potter, S. A., 175; membranous enteritis followed by intestinal perforation from ulcus rotundum, Rothmann, 190; carminatives and the absorption of gas by the intestines, 214; a new aid in the diagnosis of gastric disease, Ewald, 214; a contribution to the study of the etiology of the summer diarrhœa of infants, Haven, H. C., 221; three cases of dyspepsia, Cutler, E. G., 252, 255; diabetes, Pavy, F. W., 261; when is colotomy justifiable? Mathews, J. M., 264; gastrotomy for foreign bodies in the œsophagus, Richardson, M. H., 267; fistula-in-ano of the horse-shoe variety, Benson, S., 285; remarks on rodent ulcer of the rectum, Norton, A. T., 285; chronic hypertrophic cirrhosis of the stomach, with gastric ulcer and colloid changes of the mucous membrane, Formad, H. F., 357; a case of acute dilatation of the stomach following laparotomy, Hunter, J. B., 361; membranous or pseudo-membranous enteritis, 390; gastralgia, 390; gastrotomy for the relief of cancer of the œsophagus, Warren, J. C., 434; igni-puncture of the tonsils, St. Germain, 436; prolapse of the rectum: treatment by the actual cautery, Packard, J. H., 446; a case of purulent puerperal peritonitis successfully treated by puncture, Besnier, 465; Hebra's cure for dyspepsia, 614.

Diphtheria. Diphtheria in Newmarket, N. H., Morse, 39; diphtheria and defective sewerage in the Massachusetts Homœopathic Insane Asylum at Westboro, 144; diphtheria, Grant, J., 262.

Diplomas. An M.D. in nine months, Fisk, S. A., 118; "short-cuts" to diplomas, Pengra, C. P., 271; "an M.D. in nine months," reply, Fisk, S. A., 346.

Dislocations. A case of double dislocation of the hip, Pfeiffer, O. J., 103; congenital dislocation of the heads of the femora, Carnochan, 312; discussion on the management of compound dislocation of the ankle-joint, Moore, E. M., 339; recent and neglected cases of dislocation of the radius and ulna upward and backward upon the humerus, Lynde, U. C., 364; a case of backward dislocation of the thumb upon the metacarpal bone, irreducible by manipulation: reduced by cutting down on the joint, Elliot, J. W., 625.

Dispensary, Boston, 394.

Doctor's Wife, Cœlebs, 566, 591; "Cœlebs," "Benedick," and "Gamboge," 614; doctor's wife, 637, 638.

Dolores (Paris). Alexander's operation, 334.

Dowse Splint. The experimental value of the Dowse splint, Brackett, E. G., 321, 361.

Drainage after laparotomy, Mundé, P. F., 314.

Driver, S. W. Observations on the puerperal pelvic ligaments, 245.

Drugs. Report on foods, drugs, and their adulterations, Davenport, Bennett F., 622.

Druggist's Mistake, 490.

Dubray. The consulting-room, 22.

Duhring, L. H. The diagnosis of dermatitis herpetiformis, 283; two cases of typical impetigo simplex, 284.

Dwight, T. Recent progress in anatomy, 439; the bones of the leg considered as one apparatus, 593.

Dyspepsia. Three cases of dyspepsia; Cutler, E. G., 252, 255; Hebra's cure for dyspepsia, 614.

Ear. The examination of the power of hearing, and how to record its results, Knapp, H., 88; the successful removal of an exostosis from the external auditory canal by a new method, Burnett, C. H., 89; the differential diagnosis between affections of the middle ear and those of the labyrinth, Roosa, D. B. St. J., 89; remarks upon a case of cerebral abscess, Roosa, D. B. St. J., 90; suppuration of the tympanum occurring in a patient with Bright's disease, Roosa, D. B. St. J., 103; an efficient powder-blower, with remarks on the use of powder in the treatment of diseases of the ear, Holt, E. E., 104; excision of the ossicles of the drum of the ear for chronic purulent inflammation of the middle-ear tract, Sexton, S., 106; syphilitic disease of the labyrinth, Theobald, S., 107; remarks about the drum-membrane, with cases, Spear, E. D., 177, 183.

Editorials. The Fourth, 19; first annual meeting of the National Orthopedic Association, 20; State prophylaxis of syphilis, 42; treatment of infantile dyspepsia by lactic acid: the causation of the greenish discharges which characterize this affection, 44; the Boston Medical Library Association, 44; Kölliker's address before the German Anatomical Society, 66; report of the English committee of inquiry into Pasteur's treatment of hydrophobia, 67; the teaching of temperance by manikins, 68; a contribution to the study of pernicious anæmia, 90; the treatment of burns, 91; report of the Seybert Commission, 114; the doctrines of "Christian Science" and "Mind Cure," 114; academic and professional courses of study, 139; the causation and treatment of cholera morbus, 140; the eighteenth annual report of the State Board of Health of Massachusetts, 163; is genius a neurosis? 164; physical training for the police, 187; death after inoculation by the method of Pasteur, 188; experimental researches on the production of alcoholic cirrhosis of the liver, 188; paratriptics, 210; the abuses at Ward's Island Insane Asylum, 211; laparotomy for pelvic peritonitis and salpingitis, 212; the Ninth International Medical Congress, 241; the meeting of the International Congress at Washington, 269; antifebrin as an analgesic, 291; John Hunter as a syphilographer, 292; a grateful patient's estimate of the profession, 292; small parks as breathing-spaces, 293; the potato in its relation to Ireland's miseries, 315; transfusion and infusion, 316; cholera at the Port of New York, 317; hemianopsia and the centres for vision, 342; house-flies as carriers of tuberculous contagion, 343; typhoid fever, 366; the index catalogue, volume eight, 367; a new method of creating sea-sickness, 397; annual report of the Boston City Hospital, 368; membranous or pseudo membranous enteritis, 390; gastralgia, 390; the vital statistics of Massachusetts for the year 1886, 391; the Army Hospital Corps, 414; another new treatment of tuberculosis by sulphurous acid fumes, 415; medicinal liquid vaseline, a new vehicle for hypodermic injections, 415; quarantine arrangements at the Atlantic sea-ports, 438; Professor Sargent on the athlete, 439; a second gastrotomy for the removal of a foreign body from the œsophagus, 461; the misquoting of medical men, 462; a case of sudden suppression of the visual memories, 462; the fifteenth annual meeting of the American Public Health Association, 486; a precursor of Pasteur, 487; the case of the Crown Prince of Germany, 487; naphthol as an antiseptic medicament, 488; sources of syphilis in the female, 513; uniformity in obstetric nomenclature, 514; the new Massachusetts "act concerning commitments and transfers of the insane," 514; on the psychology of joking, 515; the variations of the normal knee-jerk, 538; the doctor's wife, 538; on the pathogeny of sea-sickness, 539; Austin Farm, and the Suffolk County insane, 540; the parasitic origin of cancer, 562; word-blindness, 563; is there a congenital sound-deafness? 586; faith-healing extraordinary, 586; word-deafness, 587; the cancer bacillus, 588; Stogdale vs. Baker, 610; the nerve-rest cure, 611; frequency of twin and triplet births, 611; annual report of the Marine Hospital Service, 612; the discussion of the cancer bacillus before the Berlin Medical Society, 612; Annus Medicus, MDCCCLXXXVII, 631.

Education. An M.D. in nine months, Fisk, S. A., 118; academic and professional courses of study, 139; another short cut into medicine, 143; the University of Michigan not guilty, 215.

Electrodes, Knapp, P. C., 399, 409.

Electrolysis. The technique and treatment of uterine fibromata by electrolysis, Apostoli, G., 362.

Elliot, J. W. A case of backward dislocation of the thumb upon the metacarpal bone, irreducible by manipulation: reduced by cutting down on the joint, 625.

Ellis, F. W. Description of a simplified clock-work apparatus for graphic experiments, 57.

Emmet, T. A. A study of the causes and treatment of uterine displacements, 288.

Empyema. Spontaneous absorption in empyema in children, and the relative advantage in children of aspiration and early incision, Holt, L. E., 14; acute empyema in children, Huber, F., 14; general consideration of the surgical treatment of empyema, Abbe, R., 15.

Endoscope. The endoscopic instruments of Joseph Leiter, of Vienna, and the present development of endoscopy, Newell, O. K., 528; cases of urethral endoscopy, Allen, G. W., 530.

Enteritis. Membranous or pseudo-membranous enteritis, 390.

Epilepsy. On trephining for epilepsy, Garmany, 288.

Erysipelas. A clinical study of erysipelas in children, Atkinson, I. E., 232.

Esmarch, F. von. Creoline: a new disinfectant, 464.

Ewald. A new aid in the diagnosis of gastric disease, 214.

Extra-Uterine Pregnancy. Report of a case of extra-uterine pregnancy, the fœtus being retained for thirty years, and becoming a lithopædion, Fales, W. H., 131, 133; extra-uterine pregnancy and its treatment by electricity, Van de Warker E., 386.

Eye. The pupil in its semeiological aspect, Macewen, W., 70; recent progress in ophthalmology, Standish, M., 78, 101; report of thirty-six cases of simple extraction of cataract without iridectomy, Bull, C. S., 108; report of a series of one thousand successive cases of extraction of cataract with iridectomy, Knapp, H., 108; does sunstroke affect the sight permanently? Spalding, J. A., 109; a case of probable quinine amaurosis, Roosa, D. B. St. J., 109; clinical contributions to the study of ring sarcoma, Burnett, S. M., 109; the so-called orthopædic treatment of the ocular muscles, Bull, C. S., 110; hyperæmia in muscular insufficiency, Lippincott, J. A., 110; cases of primary glaucoma, of hæmorrhagic glaucoma, and of secondary glaucoma, Norris, W. F., 111; cases of glioma of the retina; prolapse of the lachrymal gland; operation for the relief of entropion of the lower eyelid, Noyes, H. D., 137; a phenomenal pulsation of the interior of the eye, Mittendorf, W. F., 138; increase of blindness in the United States, Howe, L., 138; the eye of the adult imbecile, Oliver, C. A., 157; additional cases of hypermetrophic refraction passing while under observation into myopia, Ripley, S. D., 157; the pathogenesis of pterygium, Theobald, S., 157; recurrent retinal hæmorrhages followed by the outgrowth of numerous small bloodvessels from the optic disc, Theobald, S., 157; embolus of the central retinal artery, Harlan, G. C., 158; a case of retinitis pigmentosa, Standish, M., 159; a septic cataract extraction with irrigation, Williams, C. H., 159; case of congenital zonula grayish-white opacity around the fovea, Wadsworth, O. F., 184; separation of the retina in both eyes, with albuminuria of pregnancy, Wadsworth, O. F., 184; set of small test-lenses, with a modified trial frame, Jackson, E., 184; ophthalmoscope with cylindrical lens, Risley, S. D., 184; a modification of the refraction-ophthalmoscope, with an attachment for using cylindrical-lens glasses, Burnett, S. M., 184; transient myopia following iritis, Green, J., 184; a comparison of some cases of cataract extraction, with and without iridectomy, Williams, C. H., 202, 205; hemianopsia, and the centres for vision, 342; the importance of re-examination as to the accuracy of vision of railroad employees and mariners, Williams, H. W., 373; enlargement and displacement of the lachrymal gland into the upper eyelid, Robertson, A., 465; nervous symptoms from ocular defects: their relief by mechanical and medicinal measures, Amidon, R. W., 497; a case of recurrent paralysis of the motor oculi, Wadsworth, O. F., 498; recent progress in ophthalmology, Standish, M., 601.

Faith-Healing extraordinary, 588.

Fales, W. H. Report on a case of extra-uterine pregnancy, the fœtus being retained for thirty years, and becoming a lithopædion, 131, 133.

Farago, J. Reflexes in newly-born children, 489.

Farlow, J. W. Analysis of one hundred and forty-one cases of pregnancy with reference to the diagnostic value of the blue color of the vagina, 49, 58; cascara sagrada, and its use in the treatment of constipation, 402, 408.

Fees in Boston in 1785, 516.

Fell, G. E. Forced artificial respiration in opium-poisoning, 263.

Fernald, F. C. Puerperal insanity, 94.

Fever: its causes, mechanism, and rational treatment, Flint, A., 236.

Fibroid Tumors. The technique and treatment of uterine fibromata by electrolysis, Apostoli, G., 362.

Field, J. B. Was it mumps? 479.

Fingers. Skin-grafting and severed digits, Stephenson, F. B., 567.

Fisher. A case of bulbar paralysis, 186.

Fisk, S. A. An "M.D." in nine months, 118, 346; conditions favorable to out-of-door life in Colorado, 273.

Fistula-in-ano of the horse-shoe variety, Benson, S., 285.

Flies. House-flies as carriers of tuberculous contagion, 343.

Flint, A. Fever: its causes, mechanism, and rational treatment, 236.

Foley, J. L. The morbid changes and surgery of the nail, 301, 308.

Folsom, C. F. Early symptoms of general paralysis, 205.

Food. Foods, drugs, and their examination, Davenport, B. F., 33; the use of meat as a regular article of diet in the nursery, Putnam, C. P., 30, 36; milk-supply, Barnes, H. J., 82; disease in the milk-can, Clark, J. S., 100; the relations of tea-drinking to disorders of the nervous system, Bullard, W. N., 217; the artificial feeding of infants, Rotch, T. M., 305; sour milk for babes, Smith, J., 490; an introduction to the study of the influence of diet in the causation and treatment of skin diseases, White, J. C., 258; the dietetics of mustard and pepper, Burjinsky, P., 542; report on foods, drugs, and their adulterations, Davenport, Bennett F., 622.

Foot. Chronic progressive caries of the foot, with cases and presentation of a patient, Walser, W. C., 560.
Foot and Mouth Disease. Foot and mouth disease as it affects man and animals, and its relations to human scarlatina as a prophylactic, Stickler, J. W., 607.
Formad, H. F. Chronic hypertrophic cirrhosis of the stomach, with gastric ulcer and colloid changes of the mucous membrane, 337; a stab-wound of the abdomen, 337; a gun-shot wound of the heart, 337.
Foster, F. P. Vaginal injections in Sims's posture, 387.
Fourth of July, 19.
Fractures. Family predisposition to fractures, Stüdensky, N. I., 22; bony union after intra-capsular fracture of the head of the femur, Carnochan, 310; ununited fracture of the femur successfully treated by double splice and mild clamp, Lemoyne, F., 311; splint for fracture of the lower jaw, Koser, S. S., 311; dressing for greenstick fracture of the clavicle, Carroll, A. L., 561.
Fraentzel. Creosote in tuberculosis pulmonum, 161.
Frederick, C. C. In cases in which the placenta is prævia, what anatomical and physiological facts explain the hæmorrhage occurring during pregnancy, and why is hæmorrhage unavoidable during miscarriage or labor? 388.
Frost, C. P. The germ theory, 38.
Frozen sections of the male pelvis, Strong, A. B., 311.
Future of Medicine, Pattee, 40.
Gall-Stones. Sabin, R. H., 340; gall-stone, Page, F. W., 410; Cook, C. A., 410.
Galvanism. The measurement of the galvanic current, with some remarks upon electrodes, Knapp, P. C., 399.
Galvano-Cautery Sound The use of the galvano-cautery sound, particularly in hypertrophy of the prostate, with report of cases, Newman, R., 310.
Galvanometer. A new vertical galvanometer, Prince, M., 384.
Garmany. On trephining for epilepsy, 288.
Garraway, E. The dead failure, limited, 370.
Garre, C. Antagonism among bacteria, 518.
Gaseous Enemata. Clinical notes on Dr. Bergeon's treatment of chronic disease of the lung and air-passages by medicated gaseous enemata, Kinnicutt, F. P., 35; a report of ten cases of phthisis treated with gaseous enemata, Roeth, A. G., 51; carminatives and the absorption of gas by the intestines, 214.
Gastralgia, 390.
Gastrotomy. Gastrotomy for foreign bodies in the œsophagus, Richardson, M. H., 267; gastrotomy for foregn bodies in the œsophagus, Burney, 286; gastrotomy for the relief of cancer of the œsophagus, Warren, J. C., 434; a second gastrotomy for the removal of a foreign body from the œsophagus, 461.
Gaultheria. A case of poisoning with the oil of gaultheria, Pinkham, J. G., 548.
Generative System. Supplementary ovaries, Homans, J., 50, 58; uterine hæmorrhage: a consideration of some of the less common causes and their treatment, Davenport, F. H., 124, 132; report of progress in gynæcology, Davenport, F. H., 200; laparotomy for pelvic peritonitis and salpingitis, 212; a new sexual sedative, salix nigra, Hutchinson, S., 214; a series of intra-abdominal operations, Richardson, M. H., 225; observations on the puerperal pelvic ligaments, Driver, S. W., 245; some considerations upon the pathogenesis of diseases of women, Neftel, W. B., 262; three hundred and eighty-four laparotomies for various diseases, Homans, J., 263; a study of the causes and treatment of uterine displacements, 288; cystocolpocele complicating labor and pregnancy, Busey, S. C., 290; is salpingitis to be treated by extirpation of the tubes and ovaries in all cases? Polk, W. M., 313; the therapeutic value of some medicines in the treatment of hæmorrhagic conditions of the uterus, Palmer, C. D., 333; Alexander's operation, Dolores, 334; annual address before American Gynæcological Society, Skene, A. J. C., 335; the treatment of the pedicle in supra-vaginal hysterectomy, Bantock, G. G., 336; herpes serpiginosus of the cervix uteri and genitalia of women, Taylor, I. E., 338; the intra-uterine stem in the treatment of flexures, Jackson, A. R., 361; the technique and treatment of uterine fibromata by electrolysis, Apostoli, G., 362; ventral hernia after laparotomy, and its surgical treatment, Chadwick, J. R., 362; the treatment of the pedicle in supra-vaginal hysterectomy, Bantock, G. G., 363; Battey's operation: its matured results, Battey, R., 384; the infantile uterus, Johnstone, A. W., 384; vaginal injections in Sims's posture, Foster, F. P., 387; a case of so-called "vicarious menstruation," Stuart, F. W., 474, 481; report on genito-urinary surgery, Post, A., 476; hydronephrosis supposed to be ovarian tumor, Weeks, S. H., 507; the significance of pelvic pain, Coe, H. C., 511.
Genius. Is genius a neurosis? 161.
Germany. The case of the Crown Prince of Germany, 487.
Germ Theory, Frost, C. P., 38.
Gibson. Wire extension-splints in the treatment of fractures near the joints, 311.
Glason (Hamburg). Corrosive sublimate in typho'd fever, 46.
Gleditschine-Stenocarpine, Mattison, J. B., 419; Davenport, B. F., 442.
Goodale, G. L. Pasteur anticipated in 1812, 465.
Gouley, J. W. S. An address on nosography, 364.
Graham, D. Local massage for local neuralgia, 573, 581.
Grant (Bey). Report of some cases of liver abscess and their treatment, 286.
Grant, James, diphtheria, 262.
Grateful patient's estimate of the profession, 292.
Graves's Disease. An unusually rapid case of Graves's disease, Clarke, J. M., 142.
Gray, L. C. Chorea, 159; vesico-genito post-femoral neuralgia and neuritis, 631.
Green, C. M. Report on obstetrics, 180.
Green, J. Transient myopia following iritis, 184.
Green, T. Palatable therapeutics, 62.
Greenough, F. B. Clinical notes on pediculosis, 257, 469.
Grinder's Consumption, Canedy, F. J., 198.
Gun-Shot Wounds of the Abdomen, Parker, C. T., 239; gun-shot wounds of the abdomen, Manley, T. H., 310.
Guttmann, P. Creosote in the treatment of tuberculosis pulmonum, 161.
Hagenbach (Basle). The pathology and treatment of pertussis, 17.
Hall, J. N. Fatal tonsillar hæmorrhage, 604.
Hamilton, J. B. Report at International Medical Congress, 235.
Hammond, G. M. Case of congenital absence of the faculty of coördination, 630.
Hance, J. H. Case of laryngotomy after intubation, 87.
Hausen, T. B. The puerperal involutions of the uterus, 566.
Harkin, A. On the neurotic treatment of summer diarrhœa and cholera infantum, 32.
Harlan, G. C. Embolus of the central retinal artery, 158.
Harris, R. P. Cæsarean section by the bison's horn, 418.
Harrison, G. T. Indications for the induction of premature labor, 207; placenta prævia, 388.
Haven, H. C. A contribution to the study of the etiology of summer diarrhœa of infants, 221.
Hayem. Treatment of infantile dyspepsia by lactic acid: the causation of the greenish discharges which characterize this affection, 44.
Hebra. Hebra's cure for dyspepsia, 614.
Hemianopsia and the centres for vision, 342.
Hernia. Ventral hernia after laparotomy, and its surgical treatment, Chadwick, J. R., 362.
Hills, W. B. Report on medical chemistry, 453.
Hip. A case of double dislocation of the hip, Pfeiffer, O. J., 163; paracentesis of the articulation in the early stages of diseases of the hip-joint, Owen, E., 287; a contribution to the study of hip-joint diseases, Jacobson, N., 338; a method of preventing stiffening of the hip-joint in fracture of the thigh, Packard, J. H., 435.
Hoeffner. Actinomycosis in a woman, 565.
Holt, A. F. A case of acute red atrophy of the liver, 374, 383.
Holt, E. E. An efficient powder-blower, with remarks on the use of powder in the treatment of diseases of the ear, 104.
Holt, L. E. Spontaneous absorption in empyema in children, and the relative advantage in children of aspiration and early incision, 14.
Homans, J. Supplementary ovaries, 50, 58; three hundred and eighty-four laparotomies for various diseases, 263.
Hooper, F. H. Report on progress of laryngology and rhinology, 53.
Horsley, V. Operations on the brain, 46.
Hovey, B. L. Cold as a therapeutic agent, 388.
Howe, O. H. Four cases of penetrating wound of the knee-joint treated at the Boston City Hospital, 549.
Howe, L. Increase of blindness in the United States, 138.
Hubbard, R. Strychnia in sea-sickness, 418.
Hubel, F. Intubation of the larynx, 85.
Huber, F. Acute empyema in children, 14.
Hun, H. Gliomatous hypertrophy of the pons, 160.
Hunter, J. John Hunter as a syphilographer, 292.
Hunter, J. B. A case of acute dilatation of the stomach following laparotomy, 361.
Hutchinson, J. A new sexual sedative, salix nigra, 214.
Hyde, J. N. Observation of three cases of simultaneous hand-and-foot disease, 233.
Hydronephrosis supposed to be ovarian tumor, Weeks, S. H., 507.
Hydrophobia. Report of the English committee of inquiry into Pasteur's treatment of hydrophobia, 67; death after inoculation by the method of Pasteur, 188; Pasteur's treatment, Whitmarsh, W., 238.
Hygiene, Health, and Boards of Health. The eighteenth annual report of the State Board of Health of Massachusetts, 163; Hygiene in French schools, 114; conditions favorable to out-of-door life in Colorado, Fisk, S. A., 273; how can the profession aid the Board of Health? Bryant, J. D., 483; local Boards of Health, Croston, J. F., 557.
Hypodermic Injections. Medicinal liquid vaseline, a new vehicle for hypodermic injections, 415.
Hysteria and hystero-epilepsy in soldiers, Jansen, 541.
Illusions. Illusions, hallucinations, and delusions, Jewett, M. A., 558.
Inebriety. The disease of inebriety and its treatment, Crothers, T. D., 260.
Infarction. Notes on hæmorrhagic infarction, Osler, W., 325.
Infection. Infectious nature of traumatic tetanus, Shakespeare, E. O., 250.
Injections. Inter-pulmonary injections in the treatment of phthisis, Smith, R. S., 261; vaginal injections in Sims's posture, Foster, F. P., 387.
Ingalls, W. High temperature from nervous causes, 557.
Insanity. The treatment of recent cases of insanity in asylums and private houses, Blandford, G. F., 259; the new Massachusetts "act concerning commitments and transfers of the insane," 514; illusions, hallucinations, and delusions, Jewett, M. A., 558.
Instruments and Apparatus. Description of a simplified clockwork apparatus for graphic experiments, Ellis, F. W., 57; set of small test-lenses, with a modified trial frame, Jackson, E., 184; ophthalmoscope with cylindrical lens, Risley, S. D., 184; a modification of the refraction ophthalmoscope, with an attachment for using cylindrical-lens glasses, Burnett, S. M., 184; a simple apparatus for rolling gypsum bandages, Wetherill, H. G., 204; a new form of abdominal supporter, Debaker, F., 263; wire extension-splints in the treatment of fractures near the joints, Gibson, 311; splint for fracture of the lower jaw, Koser, S. S., 311; the experimental value of the Dowse splint, Brackett, E. G., 321, 361; a new vertical galvanometer, Prince, M., 384; many-tailed bandage in fractures about the shoulder, Williams, E. T., 442; new instruments, Blodgett, A. N., 483; the endoscopic instruments of Joseph Leiter, of Vienna, and the present development of endoscopy, Newell, O. K., 528.
International Medical Congress, 234, 241, 242, 259, 269, 270, 285, 310, 319.
Iodoform. The action of iodoform, De Reuyter, 40; toxic effects of iodoform, Taylor, R. W., 231.
Iodol, Assaky, 287.
Intra-Uterine stem in the treatment of flexures, Jackson, A. R., 361.

Ireland. The potato in relation to Ireland's miseries, 315.
Irish, J. C. Laparotomy for pus in the abdominal cavity and for peritonitis, 145.
Jacobson, N. A contribution to the study of hip-joint disease, 338.
Jacoby, G. W. On microscopical studies in a case of pseudo-hypertrohic paralysis, 134; the treatment of neuralgia by means of intense cold, 185.
Jackson, A. R. The intra-uterine stem in the treatment of flexures, 361.
Jackson, E. Set of small test-lenses, with a modified trial frame, 184.
Jansen. Hysteria and hystero-epilepsy in soldiers, 541.
Jenckes, H. L. Atypical typhoid fever, with report of a case, 277.
Jennings, O. Detection of morphia-taking, 21.
Jewett, C. A note on the treatment of puerperal eclampsia, 387.
Jewett, M. A. Illusions, hallucinations, and delusions, 558.
Johnstone, A. W. The infantile uterus, 384.
Joints. Tuberculosis of the joints, Read, J. B., 59.
Joking. On the psychology of joking, 515.
Jones, C. D. Premature discharge of amniotic fluid, 71.
Jones, J. D. A case of acute lobar pneumonia with protracted first stage, 456.
Jurisprudence. Can cirrhosis follow trauma? a case of medico-legal interest, Stuart, F. W., 76; a case for the medical examiner, Presbrey, S. D., 411, 620.
Kelly, T. H. Hydrotheraphy in mental diseases, 187.
Kenefick, T. A. Maternal impressions on the fœtus in utero, 639.
Kidney. Injuries of and operations upon the kidney, Otis, E. O., 349, 360, 376.
Kingman, R. A. Anæsthesia in normal labor, 457.
Kinnicutt, F. P. Clinical notes on Dr. Bergeon's treatment of chronic disease of the lung and air-passages by medicated gaseous enemata, 35.
Kite, J. A. A case of rötheln occurring during the puerperium, 156.
Knapp, H. The examination of the power of hearing, and how to record its results, 88; report on a series of one thousand successive cases of extraction of cataract with iridectomy, 108.
Knapp, P. C. Recent progress in diseases of the nervous system, 303; the measurement of the galvanic current, with some remarks upon electrodes, 399, 409.
Knee-Jerk. The variations of the normal knee-jerk, 538.
Knee-Joint. Four cases of penetrating wound of the knee-joint treated at the Boston City Hospital, Howe, O. H., 549.
Knight, F. I. Is tuberculosis of the lungs ever contagious? 79, 81.
Kolliker's address before the German Anatomical Society, 66.
Korosi, J. The preventive power of vaccination for small-pox, 238.
Koser, S. S. Splint for fracture of the lower jaw, 311.
Lamalleree. A case of tuberculosis infection, 93.
Laparotomy. Laparotomy for pus in the abdominal cavity and for peritonitis, Irish, J. C., 145; laparotomy for pelvic peritonitis and salpingitis, 212; three hundred and eighty-four laparotomies for various diseases, Homans, J., 263; an important point in abdominal surgery, Hewson, A., 264; three cases of laparo-nephrectomy, Maclain, D., 266; drainage after laparotomy, Munde, P. F., 314; a case of acute dilatation of the stomach following laparotomy, Hunter, J. B., 361; ventral hernia after laparotomy, and its surgical treatment, Chadwick, J. R., 362; laparotomy for tubercular peritonitis, 217.
Larynx. Report on progress in laryngology and rhinology, Hooper, F. H., 53; intubation of the larynx, Hubel, F., 85; feeding after intubation of the larynx, O'Dwyer, J., 86, statistical records of intubation, Brown, D., 86; patholological anatomy of the respiratory tract after death from laryngeal diphtheria and intubation, Northrup, W. P., 87; case of laryngotomy after intubation, Hance, J. H., 87; the conversion of benign growths of the larynx into malignant, Schnitzler, 613.
Lead. On the frequency with which lead is found in the urine, and on certain points in the symptomatology of chronic lead-poisoning, Putnam, J. J., 73, 97; lead-poisoning as a cause of muscular coördination (pseudo-tabes), Putnam, J. J., 596, 605.
Leale, C. A. The prevention of chronic disease among the children of New York City, 206.
Leg. The bones of the leg considered as one apparatus, Dwight, T., 593.
Lemoyne, F. Ununited fracture of the femur successfully treated by double splice and wire clamp, 311.
Leprosy. The treatment of leprosy, Unna, P. G., 283.
Leuf, A. H. P. Injuries of base-ball players, 69.
Library. The Boston Medical Library Association, 44.
Lichtheim (Berne). A contribution to the study of pernicious anæmia, 90.
Lincoln, D. F. The climate and health of Savannah, 427.
Link, J. E. Alcohol as an anæsthetic, 313.
Lippincott, J. A. Hyperæmia in muscular insufficiency, 110.
Liver. Experimental researches on the production of alcoholic cirrhosis of the liver, 188; report of some cases of liver abscess and their treatment, Grant, 286; a case of acute red atrophy of the liver, Holt, A. F., 374, 383.
Lloyd. Notes on a case of the insanity of doubt, 135.
Lopez, M. A case of tetanus cured by hypodermic injections of cocaine, 21.
Lusk, W. T. If placenta prævia be diagnosticated during pregnancy, is the induction of premature labor indicated? 389.
Lynde, U. C. When should amputation be practised in compound dislocation at the ankle, and when should other methods be employed? 339; recent and neglected cases of dislocation of the radius and ulna upward and backward upon the humerus, 364.
Lyon, S. B. Melancholia due to the prolonged use of morphia, 412.
Macewen, W. The pupil in its semeiological aspect, 70.
Malaria, Tomassi-Crudelli, 117.
Malt. The therapeutic value of malt, Townsend, C. W., 353.
Manley, T. H. Gun-shot wounds of the abdomen, 310.
Many-tailed bandage in fractures about the shoulder, Williams, E. T., 442.
Marcy, H. O. Ninth International Medical Congress, Gynæcological Section, 319.
Massage. Local massage for local neuralgia, Graham, D., 573, 581.
Materia Medica. Alcohol again: a consideration of recent misstatements of its physiological action, Warren, J. W., 1, 25; a case of tetanus cured by hypodermic injections of cocaine, Lopez, M., 21; report on food and drugs and their examination, Davenport, B. F., 33; the action of iodoform, De Reuyter, 40; corrosive sublimate in typhoid fever, Gläser, 46; respiratory therapeutics in the treatment of phthisis pulmonalis, MacNamara, L. J., 60; treatment of diseases of the skin by medicated plasters, Shoemaker, J. V., 62; palatable therapeutics, Greene, T., 62; creosote in the treatment of tuberculosis pulmonum, Fraentzel, 161; the treatment of neuralgia by means of intense cold, Jacoby, G. W., 185; hydrotherapy in mental diseases, Kelly, T. H., 187; paratriptics, 210; carminatives and the absorption of gas by the intestines, 214; toxic effects of iodoform, Taylor, R. W., 231; an accident with cocaine, Blodgett, A, N., 282; the use of medicated rubber plasters in certain cutaneous diseases, Stelwagon, H. W., 284; salt in dermal hygiene and therapeutics, Piffard, H. G., 284; protest against excessive strength of local applications (officinal and others) in skin diseases, Sherwell, S., 285; the removal of sequestra by solution in acid, Andrews, E., 286; iodol, Assaky, 287; antifebrin as an analgesic, 291; alcohol as an anæsthetic, Link, J. E., 313; report on progress in therapeutics, Williams, F. H., 329, 355; the therapeutic value of some medicines in the treatment of hæmorrhagic conditions of the uterus, Palmer, C. D., 333; the use of hot water in surgery, Varick, T. R., 338; bichloride of mercury: its uses and abuses, Wood, C. S., 338; the therapeutic value of malt, Townsend, C. W., 353; cold as a therapeutic agent, Hovey, B. L., 388; cascara sagrada and its use in the treatment of constipation, Farlow, J. W., 402, 408; melancholia due to the prolonged use of morphia, Lyon, S. B., 412; discussion upon the use of antipyrine and antifebrin in nervous disease, 413; another new treatment of tuberculosis by sulphurous acid fumes, 415; medicinal liquid vaseline, a new vehicle for hypodermic injections, 415; strychnia in seasickness, Hubbard, R., 418; gleditschine-stenocarpine, Mattison, J. B., 419; Davenport, B. F., 442; creoline, a new disinfectant, Esmarch, F. von, 464; naphthol as an antiseptic medicament, 488; antipyrine in sea-sickness, 516; mercurial washes sometimes dangerous, Pepper, A. J., 517; the analgesic effects of antipyrine, Root, R. B., 558; antithermics in neuralgic pains, Benton, S. H., 560; discussion on the uses of hyoscyamine, 631.
Mathews, J. M. When is colotomy justifiable? 264.
Mattison, J. B. Gleditschine-stenocarpine, 419.
McLeod, S. B. W. Hæmorrhage in placenta prævia, 389.
McNamara, L. J. Respiratory therapeutics in the treatment of phthisis pulmonalis, 60.
Meat. The use of meat as a regular article of diet in the nursery, Putnam, C. P., 30, 36.
Mediastinum. Mediastinal tumor, Westcott, 337.
Medicine. Address in medicine, Woodbury, F., 62; the natural history of disease, Ouchterlony, J. A., 260; address on medicine at the New York State Medical Association, Cronin, J., 387.
Melancholia due to the prolonged use of morphia, Lyon, S. B., 412.
Menstruation. A case of so-called "vicarious menstruation," Stuart, F. W., 474, 481.
Mercurial washes sometimes dangerous, Pepper, A. J., 517.
Mercury. Bichloride of mercury: its uses and abuses, Wood, C. S., 338.
Micro-organism. The death-point of micro-organisms, Sternberg, G. M., 94.
Milk. Milk-supply, Barnes, H. J., 82; disease in the milk-can, Clark, J. S., 100; sour milk for babes, Smith, J., 490.
Mills, C. K. Notes of some cases of multiple neuritis (or myelitis) of syphilitic origin, with remarks on the difficulties of diagnosticating multiple neuritis from some forms of myelitis, 186.
Mind. The treatment of recent cases of insanity in asylums.
Minor Surgery. Four months' experience in minor surgery at the Boston City Hospital, Burrell, H. L., 297, 309.
Minot, F. Induction of premature labor, 556.
Misquoting of medical men, 462.
Mittendorf, W. F. A phenomenal pulsation of the interior of the eye, 138.
Mixter, S. J. A case of tumor of the breast, 328, 359.
Moncorvo (Brazil). Pertussis, and its treatment by resorcin, 435.
Money, Angel. Some vaso-motor phenomena in typhoid fever, 637.
Moore, E. M. Discussion on the management of compound dislocation of the ankle-joint, 339.
Morphia. Detection of morphia-taking, Jennings, O., 21.
Morison, R. B. Leucopathia unguium, a peculiar affection of the nails, 233.
Morse (New Hampshire). Diphtheria in Newmarket, N. H., 39.
Mother's Mark. Maternal impressions on the fœtus in utero, Kenefick, T. A., 639.
Mumps. Was it mumps? Field, J. B., 479.
Munde, P. F. Drainage after laparotomy, 314.
Murdoch, J. S. Address in surgery, 62.
Mustard. The dietetics of mustard and pepper, Burjinsky, 542.
Nails. Leucopathia unguium, a peculiar affection of the nails, Morison, R. B., 233; the morbid changes and surgery of the nail, Foley, J. L., 301, 308.
Naphthol as an antiseptic medicament, 488.
Natural history of disease, Ouchterlony, J. A., 260.
Neftel, W. B. Some considerations upon the pathogenesis of diseases of women, 262.
Nervous System. The pathology and treatment of pertussis, Hagenbach, 17; a case of tetanus cured by hypodermic injections of cocaine, Lopez, M., 21; on the neurotic treatment of summer diarrhœa and cholera infantum, Harkin, A., 32; operations on the brain, Horsley, V., 46; on some points regarding therapeutical and other injuries of the brain, Spitzka, E. C., 112; notes of a rare case of dystrophy of the face and head, Putnam, J. J., 113; sarcomatous tumor of the brain attached on one side to the sphenoid bone, Putnam, J. J., 113; hereditary tremor, Dana, 134; on microscopical studies in a case of pseudo-hypertrophic paralysis, Jacoby, G. W., 134; on arrested cerebral development, with special reference to its pathology, Sachs, 135; notes on a case of the insanity of doubt, 135; chorea, Gray, L. C., 159; two cases of hemichorea associated with Bright's disease, Dercum, 160; gliomatous hypertrophy of the pons, Howe, H., 160; on paramyoclonus multiplex, Starr, 161; thermo-taxis, Ott, 185; on a case of anencephalitis illustrating the sensory tract, Dana, 185; the treatment of neuralgia by means of intense cold, Jacoby, G. W., 185; notes of some cases of multiple neuritis (or myelitis) of syphilitic origin, with remarks on the difficulties of diagnosticating multiple neuritis from some forms of myelitis, Mills, C. K., 186; a case of bulbar paralysis, Fisher, 186; hydrotheraphy in mental diseases, Kelly, T. H., 187; early symptoms of general paralysis, Folsom, C. F., 205; the relation of tea-drinking to disorders of the nervous system, Bullard, W. N., 217; abstract of a preliminary report of experimental researches concerning the infectious nature of traumatic tetanus, Shakespeare, E. O., 250; on trephining for epilepsy, Garmany, 288; recent progress in diseases of the nervous system, Knapp, P. C., 303; a case of recurrent paralysis of the third nerve, Wadsworth, O. F., 383; the measurement of the galvanic current, with some remarks upon electricity, Knapp, P. C., 399, 409; a case of agoraphobia, Blodgett, A. N., 407; arthropathy of tabes, Porter, W. H., 411; melancholia due to the prolonged use of morphia, Lyon, S. B., 412; discussion upon the use of antipyrine and antifebrin in nervous disease, 413; cerebral irritation of young children, especially of infants at the breast, Simon, J., 435; symptoms following injury to the head and back, Boland, E. S., 450, 458; reflexes in newly-born children, Farago, J., 489; nervous symptoms from ocular defects: their relief by mechanical and medicinal measures, Amidon, R. W., 497; a case of recurrent paralysis of the motor oculi, Wadsworth, O. F., 498; aphasia without paralysis, Robinson, B., 510; multiple neuritis, Shattuck, G. B., 523, 534; the variations of the normal knee-jerk, 538; hysteria and hystero-epilepsy in soldiers, Jansen, 541; antithermics in neuralgic pains, Benton, S. H., 560; local massage for local neuralgia, Graham, D., 573, 581; lead-poisoning as a cause of muscular incoördination (pseudo-tabes), Putnam, J. J., 596, 605; the nerve-rest cure, 611; case of congenital absence of the faculty of coördination, Hammond, G. M., 630; vesico-genito post-femoral neuralgia and neuritis, Gray, L. C., 631; some vaso-motor phenomena in typhoid fever, Money, Angel, 637.

Nerve-rest Cure, 611.

Neuralgia. Local massage for local neuralgia, Graham, D., 573, 581.

Neuritis. Multiple neuritis, 523, 534.

Newell, O. K. The endoscopic instruments of Joseph Leiter, of Vienna, and the present development of endoscopy, 528, 537.

Newman, R. The use of the galvano-cautery sound, particularly in hypertrophy of the prostate, with report of cases, 310.

Newmarket, N. H. Diphtheria in Newmarket, N. H., Morse, 39.

New York. Cholera at the Port of New York, 317.

Norris, W. F. Cases of acute primary glaucoma, of hæmorrhagic glaucoma, and of secondary glaucoma, 111.

North, N. L. The small-pox in Brooklyn: defective isolation and defective vaccination, 388.

Northrup, W. P. Pathological anatomy of the respiratory tract after death from laryngeal diphtheria and intubation, 87.

Norton, A. T. Remarks on rodent ulcer of the rectum, 285.

Nosography. An address on nosography, Gouley, J. W. S., 364.

Noyes, H. D. Case of glioma of the retina, 137; prolapse of the lachrymal gland, 137; operation for the relief of entropion of the lower eyelid, 137.

Nurses. The training of nurses in private practice, Worcester, A., 193.

O'Dwyer, J. Feeding after intubation of the larynx, 86.

Œsophagus. Gastrotomy for the relief of cancer of the œsophagus, Warren, J. C., 434.

Oliver, C. A. The eye of the adult imbecile, 157.

Opium. Forced artificial respiration in opium-poisoning, Fell, G. E., 263.

Orthopraxy. First annual meeting of the National Orthopedic Association, 20; paracentesis of the articulation in the early stages of diseases of the hip-joint, Owen, E., 287; a contribution to the study of hip-joint disease, Jacobson, N., 338; congenital talipes equino-varus, Scudder, C. L., 397, 424; report on progress in orthopedic surgery, Bradford, E. H., and Lovett, R. W., 503.

Orton, J. G. After child-birth in placenta prævia, what therapeutical measures will most certainly guard against the dangers of hæmorrhage and septic infection? 389.

Osler, W. Notes on hæmorrhagic infarction, 325; thrombosis of the portal vein, 336.

Osteo-sarcoma of the scapula, Cheever, D. W., 12.

Otis, E. O. Injuries of and operations upon the kidney, 349, 360, 376; hints to physicians sending their consumptive patients to Colorado, 569, 579.

Ott. Thermo-taxis, 185.

Ounce troy and ounce avoirdupois, Wetherill, H. G., 143, 167.

Ouchterlony, J. A. The natural history of disease, 260.

Ovaries. Supplementary ovaries, Homans, J., 50, 58.

Ovariotomy. Three hundred and eighty-four laparotomies for various diseases, Homans, J., 263.

Owen, E. Paracentesis of the articulation in the early stages of diseases of the hip-joint, 287.

Oxygen. Oxygen treatment in pneumonia, Bowditch, V. Y., 582.

Packard, J. H. Symptoms indicating injury of the abdominal organs: recovery under medical treatment, 445; a method of preventing stiffening of the hip-joint in fracture of the thigh, 445; stab-wound in the back, 445; relaxation suture, 446; prolapse of the rectum: treatment by the actual cautery, 446.

Page, F. W. Gall-stone, 410.

Palmer, C. D. The therapeutic value of some medicines in the treatment of hæmorrhagic conditions of the uterus, 333.

Pancreatitis. A case of chronic pancreatitis, with symptoms resembling malignant disease, Call, E. L., 576, 581.

Papilloma of the male bladder successfully removed by the suprapubic operation, Watson, F. S., 421, 434.

Parasites. Clinical notes on pediculosis, Greenough, F. B., 257, 469.

Paratriptics, 210.

Parkes, C. T. Gun-shot wounds of the abdomen, 239.

Parks. Small parks as breathing spaces, 293.

Parvin, T. A brief note on the importance of the use of antiseptics in private obstetric practice, 385.

Pasteur. Report of the English committee of inquiry into Pasteur's treatment of hydrophobia, 67; Pasteur anticipated in 1812, Thacher, J., 465; a precursor of Pasteur, 487; death after inoculation by the method of Pasteur, 188; Pasteur's treatment, Whitmarsh, W., 238.

Patella-Reflex. The variations of the normal knee-jerk, 538.

Pattee (New Hampshire). The future of medicine, 40.

Pavy, F. W. Diabetes, 261.

Pediculi. Clinical notes on pediculosis, Greenough, F. B., 257, 469.

Pelvis. Observations on the puerperal pelvic ligaments, Driver, S. W., 245; the significance of pelvic pain, Coe, H. C., 511.

Pengra, C. P. "Short cuts" to diplomas, 271.

Pepper. The dietetics of mustard and pepper, Burjinsky, 542.

Pepper, A. J. Mercurial washes sometimes dangerous, 517.

Pericarditis. Case of pericarditis with complications, Read, I. B., 584.

Pertussis. The pathology and treatment of pertussis, Hagenbach, 17; pertussis and its treatment by resorcin, Moncorvo, 435.

Pfeiffer, O. J. A case of double dislocation of the hip, 103.

Pharynx. Cured pharyngeal tuberculosis, Solis-Cohen, J., 345.

Phillipps, C. D. F. The ætiology of phthisis, 262.

Phthisis. Inter-pulmonary injections in the treatment of phthisis, Smith, R. S., 261; ætiology of phthisis, Phillips, C. D. F., 262; the treatment of pulmonary phthisis by the pneumatic cabinet, with a report of cases, Brown, D. R., 545.

Physiology. Notes of progress in physiology, Warren, J. W., 127, 152.

Piffard, H. G. Salt in dermal hygiene and therapeutics, 284.

Pinkham, J. G. A case of poisoning with the oil of gaultheria, 548.

Placenta Prævia. Discussion on, Harrison, G. T., 388; Frederick, C. C., 388; Taylor, I. E., 388; Colvin, D., 389; McLeod, S. B. W., 389; Lusk, W. T., 389; Banta, R. L., 389; Shrady, J., 389; Orton, J. G., 389; Robb, W. H., 389.

Pleurisy with effusion, Sherman, T. F., 228, 230.

Pneumatic Cabinet. The treatment of pulmonary phthisis by the pneumatic cabinet, with a report of cases, Brown, D. R., 545.

Pneumonia. A case of acute lobar pneumonia with protracted first stage, Jones, J. D., 456; oxygen treatment in pneumonia, Bowditch, V. Y., 582.

Poisons. Forced artificial respiration in opium-poisoning, Fell, G. E., 263; an accident with cocaine, Blodgett, A. N., 282; a case of poisoning from arsenical wall-paper, Smith, W. E., 476, 480; a case of poisoning with the oil of gaultheria, Pinkham, J. G., 548; poisoning from antifebrin, Bauer, F. M., 564; cases of poisoning from tyrotoxicon, Vaughan, V. C., 590; lead-poisoning as a cause of muscular incoördination (pseudo-tabes), Putnam, J. J., 596, 605.

Police. Physical training for the police, 187.

Polk, W. M. Is salpingitis to be treated by extirpation of the tubes and ovaries in all cases? 313.

Porter, F. E. Typhoid fever with unusual features, 182.

Porter, W. H. Arthropathy of tabes, 411.

Post, A. Report on genito-urinary surgery, 477; cases illustrating the late manifestations of congenital syphilis, 493, 509; removal of the shaft of the tibia: reproduction of bone from the tibia, 509.

Post, G. E. Calculus in Syria, 311.

Potato in its relation to Ireland's miseries, 315.

Potter, S. A. Sepsis and antisepsis in summer diarrhœa, 175.

Practice of medicine at the present day, Arnold, A. B., 238.

Pregnancy, Affections connected with. Address in obstetrics, Childs, 38; analysis of one hundred and forty-one cases of pregnancy with reference to the diagnostic value of the blue color of the vagina, Farlow, J. W., 49, 58; premature discharge of amniotic fluid, Jones, C. D., 71; puerperal insanity, Fernald, F. C., 94; a case of brow-presentation converted into face: high forceps, Reynolds, E., 102; report of a case of extra-uterine pregnancy, the fœtus being retained for thirty years, and becoming a lithopædion, Fales, W. H. 131, 133; spontaneous rupture of the cord, 142; a case of rötheln occurring during the puerperium, Kite, J. A., 156; report on obstetrics, Green, C. M., 180; indications for the induction of premature labor, Harrison, G. T., 207; observations on the puerperal pelvic ligaments, Driver, S. W., 245; cystocolpocele complicating labor and pregnancy, Busey, S. C., 290; a brief note on the importance of the use of antiseptics in private obstetric practice, Parvin, T., 385 extra-uterine pregnancy and its treatment by electricity, Van de Warker, E., 386; a note on the treatment of puerperal eclampsia, Jewett, C., 387; placenta prævia, discussion on, 388; anæsthesia in normal labor, Kingman, R. A., 457; a case of purulent puerperal peritonitis successfully treated by puncture, Besnier, 405; uniformity in obstetric nomenclature, 514; serious collapse following labor induced in the ninth month on account of ante-partum hæmorrhage, Stedman, C. E., 555; induction of premature labor, Minot, F., 556; high temperature from nervous causes, Ingalls, W., 557; puerperal eclampsia, Sweeney, A., 557; the puerperal involution of the uterus, Hausen, T. B., 566; frequency of twin and triplet births, 611.

Presbrey, S. D. A case for the medical examiner, 411, 620.

Prince, M. A new vertical galvanometer, 384.

Pruritus. Clinical notes on pruritus, Buckley, L. D., 257.

Purpura. A case of purpura with circinate lesions, Stelwagon, H. W., 285.

Putnam, C. P. The use of meat as a regular article of diet in the nursery, 30, 36.

Putnam, J. J. On the frequency with which lead is found in the urine, and on certain points in the symptomatology of chronic lead-poisoning, 73, 97; notes of a rare case of dystrophy of the face and head, 113; sarcomatous tumor of the brain attached on one side to the sphenoid bone, 113; lead-poisoning as a cause of muscular incoördination (pseudo-tabes), 596, 605.

Quarantine. The condition of the New York Quarantine indefensible, Bell, A. N., 519; disinfection at the New York Quarantine, Sternberg, G. M., 542; quarantine arrangements at the Atlantic sea-ports, 438.

Rapin. Some rare forms of urticaria: giant urticaria, internal urticaria, 22

Read, I. B. Tuberculosis of the joints, 59; case of pericarditis with complications, 584.

Recent Progress. Dentistry, Rollins, W. H., 9; foods, drugs, and their examination, Davenport, B. F., 33; laryngology and rhinology, Hooper, F. H., 53; ophthalmology, Standish, M., 78, 101; physiology, Warren, J. W., 127; obstetrics, Green, C. M., 180; gynæcology, Davenport, F. H., 200; diseases of the chest, Shattuck, F. C., 278; nervous system, Knapp, P. C., 303; therapeutics, Williams, F. H., 329, 355; surgery, Burrell, H. L., and Cushing, H. W., 379, 403; anatomy, Dwight, T., 430; medical chemistry, Hills, W. B., 453; genito-urinary surgery, Post, A., 476; orthopedic surgery, Bradford, E. H., and Lovett, R. W., 503; dermatology, Tilden, G. H., 531; diseases of children, Rotch, T. M., 551; ophthalmology, Standish, M., 601; foods, drugs, and their adulterations, Davenport, Bennett F., 622.

Rectum. Prolapse of the rectum: treatment by the actual cautery, Packard, J. H., 446.

Relaxation-Suture, Packard, J. H., 446.

Resorcin. Pertussis and its treatment by resorcin, Moncorvo, 435.

Respiratory System. Spontaneous absorption in empyema in children, and the relative advantage in children of aspiration and early incision, Holt, L. E., 14; acute empyema in children, Huber, F., 14; general consideration of the surgical treatment of empyema, Abbe, R., 15; the pathology and treatment of pertussis, Hagenbach, 17; clinical notes on Dr. Bergeon's treatment of chronic disease of the lungs and air-passages by medicated gaseous enemata, Kinnicutt, F. P., 35; a report of ten cases of phthisis treated with gaseous enemata, Roeth, A. G., 51; respiratory therapeutics in the treatment of phthisis pulmonaris, McNamara, L. G., 60; is tuberculosis of the lungs ever contagious? Knight, F. I., 79, 81; intubation of the larynx, Hubel, F., 85; feeding after intubation of the larynx, O'Dwyer, J., 86; statistical records of intubation, O'Dwyer, J., 86; pathological anatomy of the respiratory tract after death from laryngeal diphtheria and intubation, Northrup, W. P., 87; case of laryngotomy after intubation, Hance, I. H., 87; creosote in the treatment of tuberculosis pulmonum, Fraentzel, 161; Grinder's consumption, Canedy, F. J., 198; pleurisy with effusion, Sherman, T. F., 228, 230; inter-pulmonary injections in the treatment of phthisis, Smith, R. S., 261; the etiology of phthisis, Phillips, C. D. F., 262; the rational treatment of diseases of the respiratory system, Stubbs, G. E., 262; report on progress in diseases of the chest, Shattuck, F. C., 278; a case of acute lobar pneumonia with protracted first stage, Jones, J. D., 456; pulmonary tuberculosis as a sequel to ordinary pleurisy with effusion, Vickery, H. F., 521; the treatment of pulmonary phthisis by the pneumatic cabinet, with a report of cases, Brown, D. R., 545; oxygen treatment in pneumonia, Bowditch, V. Y., 582.

Reynolds, E. A case of brow-presentation converted into face: high forceps, 102.

Rheumatism. The morphology of rheumatic blood, Cutter, E., 261.

Richardson, M. H. A series of intra-abdominal operations, 225, 230; gastrotomy for foreign bodies in the œsophagus, 267.

Ripley, S. D. Additional cases of hypermetrophic refraction passing while under observation into myopia, 157.

Risley, S. D. Ophthalmoscope with cylindrical lens, 184.

Robb, W. H. After child-birth in placenta prævia, what therapeutical measures will most certainly guard against the dangers of hæmorrhage and septic infection? 389.

Roberts, M. J. A new method of operations on bone, 311.

Robertson, A. Enlargement and displacement of the lachrymal gland into the upper eyelid, 465.

Robinson, B. Aphasia without paralysis, 510.

Rodent ulcer of the rectum, Norton, A. T., 285.

Roeth, A. G. A report of ten cases of phthisis treated with gaseous enemata, 51.

Rollins, W. H. Progress in dentistry, 9.

Roosa, D. B. St. J. The differential diagnosis between affections of the middle ear and those of the labyrinth, 89; remarks upon a case of cerebral abscess, 90; suppuration of the tympanum occurring in a patient with Bright's disease, 103; a case of probable quinine amaurosis, 109.

Root, R. B. The analgesic effects of antipyrine, 558.

Rotch, T. M. The artificial feeding of infants, 305; report on diseases of children, 551.

Rotheln. A case of rotheln occurring during the puerperium, Kite, J. A., 156.

Rothmann. Membranous enteritis followed by intestinal perforation from ulcus rotundum, 190.

Rubber Plasters. The use of medicated rubber plasters in certain cutaneous diseases, Stelwagon, H. W., 284.

Sabin, R. H. Gall-stones, 340.

Sachs (New York). On arrested cerebral development, with special reference to its pathology, 135.

Salpingitis. Is salpingitis to be treated by extirpation of the tubes and ovaries in all cases? Polk, W. M., 313.

Sargent, D. A. Professor Sargent on the athlete, 439.

Savannah. The climate and health of Savannah, Lincoln, D. F., 427.

Sawin. Ruptured heart and thrombosis of the coronary artery, 37.

Sayre, L. H. The treatment of psoas abscess by posterior lumbar incision, 286.

Scapula. Osteo-sarcoma of the scapula, Cheever, D. W., 12.

Scarlet Fever. On so-called surgical scarlet fever, 592.

Scarlatina. Foot and mouth disease as it affects man and animals, and its relations to human scarlatina as a prophylactic, Stickler, J. W., 607.

Scheurlen. Scheurlen's cancer bacillus, Bigelow, H. R., 614.

Schnitzler. The conversion of benign growths of the larynx into malignant, 613.

Schools. Hygiene in French schools, 214.

Schrotter. Dilatation of the right ventricle and its exploratory puncture, 70.

Scudder, C. L. Congenital talipes equino-varus, 397, 424.

Sea-Sickness. A new method of treating sea-sickness, 367; strychnia in sea-sickness, Hubbard, R., 418; antipyrine in sea-sickness, 516; on the pathology of sea-sickness, 539.

Semmola (Naples). Bacteriology and its therapeutical relations, 237; pathology of albuminuria, 261.

Senn, N. An experimental contribution to intestinal surgery, with especial reference to the treatment of intestinal obstruction, 239.

Senn (Milwaukee). Elastic constriction of the neck, with exclusion of the trachea, as a means of controlling hæmorrhages in operations on the head, 312.

Sepsis and antisepsis in summer diarrhœa, Potter, S. A., 175.

Sequestra. The removal of sequestra by solution in acid, Andrews, E., 286.

Sewall, H. The University of Michigan not guilty, 215

Sexton, S. Excision of the ossicles of the drum of the ear for chronic purulent inflammation of the middle-ear tract, 106.

Shakespeare, E. O. Abstract of a preliminary report of experimental researches concerning the infectious nature of traumatic tetanus, 250.

Shattuck, F. C. Report on progress in diseases of the chest, 278.

Shattuck, G. B. Multiple neuritis: cases, 523, 534.

Sherman, T. F. Pleurisy with effusion, 228, 230.

Sherwell, S. Protest against excessive strength of local applications (officinal and others) in skin diseases, 285.

Shoemaker, J. V. Treatment of diseases of the skin by medicated plasters, 62.

Simon, J. Cerebral irritation of young children, and particularly of infants at the breast, 435.

Skene, A. J. C. Address before American Gynæcological Society, 335.

Skin-Grafting and severed digits, Stephenson, F. B., 567.

Small-pox in Brooklyn: defective isolation and defective vaccination, North, N. L., 388.

Smith, J. Sour milk for babes, 490.

Smith, J. L. A review of some of the more important papers presented to the Section of Children's Diseases of the Ninth International Congress, 434.

Smith, R. S. Inter-pulmonary injections in the treatment of phthisis, 261.

Smith, W. E. A case of poisoning from arsenical wall-paper, 476, 480.

Societies. American Association for the Advancement of Science, 166; American Dermatological Association, 231, 257, 282; American Gynæcological Society, 288, 313, 333, 361, 384; American Neurological Association, 112, 134, 159, 185; American Ophthalmological Society, 108, 137, 157, 184; American Otological Society, 88, 103; American Public Health Association, 486; Berlin Society for Internal Medicine, 161; Boston Society for Medical Improvement, 434, 534, 605; Boston Society for Medical Observation, 36, 183, 230, 383, 456, Boston Medico-Psychological Society, 458; Boston Obstetrical Society, 305, 555; Congress of American Physicians and Surgeons, 417; Essex North District Medical Society, 557; German Congress for Internal Medicine, 17; German Surgeons Sixteenth Congress, 40; International Medical Congress, 234, 241, 242, 259, 269, 270, 285, 310, 319; Massachusetts Medical Society, Suffolk District, 12, 58, 132, 255, 359, 408, 479, 536, 579; Massachusetts Medico-Legal Society, 59, 411; National Orthopedic Association, 20; New Hampshire Medical Society, 38; New York Academy of Medicine, 14, 85, 458, 483, 607; New York County Medical Association, 59, 434, 583; New York Neurological Society, 411; New York State Medical Association, 338, 364, 387, 559; Pennsylvania State Medical Society, 62; Philadelphia Pathological Society, 336; Suffolk District Medical Society, 12, 58, 132, 255, 308, 625.

Solis-Cohen, J. Cured laryngeal tuberculosis, 345.

Spalding, J. A. Does sunstroke affect the sight permanently? 109.

Spear, E. D. Remarks about the drum-membrane, with cases, 177, 183.

Sphygmograph. The clinical significance of sphygmographic tracings, Carroll, A. L., 559.

Spine. Fracture of the spine: its immediate treatment by rectification of the deformity and fixation by plaster-of-Paris jacket, Burrell, H. L., 169.

Spitzka, E. C. On some points regarding therapeutical and other injuries of the brain, 112; acute or grave delirium, 160.

Splint. The experimental value of the Dowse splint, Brackett, E. G., 321.

Standish, M. Recent progress in ophthalmology, 78, 101; a case of retinitis pigmentosa treated electrically, 159; recent progress in ophthalmology, 601.

Starr. On paramyoclonus multiplex, 161.

Stedman, C. E. Serious collapse following labor induced in the ninth month on account of ante-partum hæmorrhage, 555.

Stelwagon, H. W. The use of medicated rubber plasters in certain cutaneous diseases, 284; a case of purpura with circinate lesions, 285.

Stephenson, F. B. Skin-grafting and severed digits, 567.

Sternberg, G. M. The death-point of micro-organisms, 94; disinfection at the New York Quarantine, 542.

Stewart, G. Albuminuria in health, 94.

Stickler, J. W. Foot and mouth disease as it affects man and animals, and its relations to human scarlet fever as a prophylactic, 607.

St. Germain (Paris). Præputial dilatation, 435; igni-puncture of the tonsils, 436.

Stogdale vs. Baker, 610.

Stricture. A comparison of gradual dilatation, divulsion, internal and external urethrotomy, in the treatment of urethral stricture, Watson, F. S., 617, 627; cases of urethral stricture treated by electrolysis, Allen, G. W., 621, 630.

Strong, A. B. Frozen sections of the male pelvis, 311.

Strychnia in sea-sickness, Hubbard, R., 418.

Stuart, F. W. A case of so-called "vicarious menstruation," 474, 481; can cirrhosis follow trauma? a case of medico-legal interest, 76, 81.

Stubbs, G. E. The rational treatment of diseases of the respiratory system, 262.

Studensky, N. I. Family predisposition to fractures, 22.

Sulphurous Acid as a new remedy for the treatment of tuberculosis, 415.

Surgery. The surgery of the abdomen, illustrated by eight cases, Cheever, D. W., 6, 12; address in surgery, Murdoch, J. S., 262; four months' experience in minor surgery at the Boston City Hospital, Burrell, H. L., 297, 309; report on progress in surgery, Burrell, H. L., and Cushing, H. W., 379; four cases of penetrating wound of the knee-joint treated at the Boston City Hospital, Howe, O. H., 549.

Sweeney, A. Puerperal eclampsia, 557.

Syphilis. State prophylaxis of syphilis, 42; cases illustrating the late manifestations of congenital syphilis, Post, A., 493, 509; sources of syphilis in the female, 513.

Tabes. Arthropathy of tabes, Porter, W. H., 411.
Taylor, I. E. Lupus serpiginosus of the cervix uteri and genitalia of women, 388; hæmorrhage in placenta prævia, 388.
Taylor, F. W. A case of calcification of the aorta, 578.
Taylor, R. W. Toxic effects of iodoform, 231.
Tea. The relation of tea-drinking to disorders of the nervous system, Bullard, W. N., 217.
Temperance. The teaching of temperance by manikins, 68.
Tetanus. A case of tetanus cured by hypodermic injections of cocaine, Lopez, M., 21; abstract of a preliminary report of experimental researches concerning the infectious nature of traumatic tetanus, Shakespeare, E. O., 250.
Thacher, J. Pasteur anticipated in 1812, 465.
Theobald, S. Syphilitic disease of the labyrinth, 107; the pathogenesis of pterygium, 157; recurrent retinal hæmorrhages followed by the outgrowth of numerous small bloodvessels from the optic disc, 157.
Therapeutics. Report on progress in therapeutics, Williams, F. H., 329; the analgesic effects of antipyrine, Root, R. B., 558; antithermics in neuralgic pains, Benton, S. H., 560; discussion on the uses of hyoscyamine, 631.
Tibia. Removal of the shaft of the tibia; reproduction of bone from the tibia, Post, A., 509.
Tilden, G. H. Report on dermatology, 531.
Tischendorf, von (Leipsic). Enterostomy for congenital atresia of the ilium, 41.
Tommassi-Crudelli. Malaria, 117.
Tonsils. Igni-puncture of the tonsils, St. Germain, 436; fatal tonsillar hæmorrhage, Hall, J. N., 604.
Townsend, C. W. The therapeutic value of malt, 353.
Transfusion and Infusion, 316.
Trephining for epilepsy, Garmany, 288.
Tuberculosis. Tuberculosis of the joints, Read, I. B., 59; is tuberculosis of the lungs ever contagious? Knight, F. I., 79, 81; a cycle of tuberculosis infection, Lamallerée, 93; excessive summer heat the exciting cause of tuberculosis, Buckler, T. H., 118; excessive heat the exciting cause of tuberculosis, Boyland, G. H., 191; house-flies as carriers of tuberculous contagion, 343; cured pharyngeal tuberculosis, Solis-Cohen, J., 345; another new treatment of tuberculosis by sulphurous acid fumes, 415; laparotomy for tubercular peritonitis, 517; pulmonary tuberculosis as a sequel to ordinary pleurisy with effusion, Vickery, H. F., 521.
Tumor of the head, probably inter-cranial, 267.
Tumor. A case of tumor of the breast, Mixter, S. J., 328; mediastinal tumor, Westcott, 337.
Twin and Triplet Births, 611.
Typhoid Fever. Corrosive sublimate in typhoid fever, Gläser, 46; typhoid fever with unusual features, Porter, F. E., 180; on the communicability of typhoid fever through the air, Devaix, 190; typhoid fever, Cosna, W. R., 261; atypical typhoid fever, with report of a case, Jenckes, H. L., 277; discussion on typhoid fever, Carroll, A. L., 364; typhoid fever, 366; some vaso-motor phenomena in typhoid fever, Money, Angel, 637.
Tyrotoxicon. Cases of poisoning from tyrotoxicon, Vaughan, V. C., 590.
Unna, P. G. The relations of dermatology to general medicine, 259; the treatment of leprosy, 283.
Urinary System. On the frequency with which lead is found in the urine, and on certain points in the symptomatology of chronic lead-poisoning, Putnam, J. J., 73, 97; albuminuria in health, Stewart, G., 94; two cases of hemichorea associated with Bright's disease, Dercum, 160; separation of the retina in both eyes, with albuminuria of pregnancy, Wadsworth, O. F., 184; the importance of early recognition, diagnosis, and surgical treatment of tumors of the bladder, Davis, G. W., 195; pathology of albuminuria, Semmola, M., 261; calculus in Syria, Post, G. E., 311; a case of cystitis treated by colpo-uretro cystotomy, irrigation of the pelvis of the kidney, and intra-vaginal drainage, Bozeman, N., 340; injuries of and operations upon the kidney, Otis, E. O., 349, 360; a case of papilloma of the male bladder successfully removed by the supra-pubic operation, Watson, F. S., 421, 434; præputial dilatation, St. Germain, 435; report on genito-urinary surgery, Post, A., 476; hydronephrosis supposed to be ovarian tumor, Weeks, S. H., 507; cases of urethral endoscopy, Allen, G. W., 530; fatal case of vesical calculi, Brown, D., 582; a comparison of gradual dilatation, divulsion, internal and external urethrotomy in the treatment of urethral stricture, Watson, F. S., 617, 627; cases of urethral stricture treated by electrolysis, Allen, G. W., 621, 630.
Urticaria. Some rare forms of urticaria: giant urticaria, internal urticaria, Rapin, 22.
Vaccination. The preventive power of vaccination for small-pox, Kerosi, J., 238; vaccination, Whitmarsh, W., 238; small-pox in Brooklyn: defective isolation and defective vaccination, North, N. L., 388.
Valli, E. A precursor of Pasteur, 487.
Van de Warker, E. Extra-uterine pregnancy and its treatment by electricity, 386.
Van Zandt, H. C. Specialists, 388.
Varick, T. R. The use of hot water in surgery, 338.
Vaseline. Medicated liquid vaseline, a new vehicle for hypodermic injections, 415.
Vaughn, V. C. Cases of poisoning from tyrotoxicon, 590.
Veratrum Viride. A note on the treatment of puerperal eclampsia, Jewett, D., 387.
Vermont Nervine Establishment, 517.
Vickery, H. F. Pulmonary tuberculosis as a sequel to ordinary pleurisy with effusion, 521.
Visual Memory. A case of sudden suppression of the visual memories, 462.
Wadsworth, O. F. Cases of congenital zonula grayish-white opacity around the fovea, 184; separation of the retina in both eyes, with albuminuria of pregnancy, 184: a case of recurrent paralysis of the third nerve, 383; a case of recurrent paralysis of the motor oculi, 498.
Wagner, C. Colorado Springs and Davos-Platz compared as health resorts, 458.
Walser, W. C. Chronic progressive caries of the foot, with cases and presentation of a patient, 560.
Waltham Cottage Hospital, 393.
Ward's Island, N. Y. The abuses at Ward's Island Insane Asylum, 211.
Ware, C. E. Obituary, 294.
Warren, J. C. Gastrotomy for the relief of cancer of the œsophagus, 434.
Warren, J. W. Alcohol again: a consideration of recent misstatements of its physiological action, 1, 25; notes of progress in physiology, 127, 152.
Washington. Letters from Washington, 242, 271.
Water. The use of hot water in surgery, Varick, T. R., 338.
Watson, F. S. A case of papilloma of the male bladder successfully removed by the supra-pubic operation, 421, 434; a comparison of gradual dilatation, divulsion, internal and external urethrotomy, in the treatment of urethral stricture, 617, 627.
Wedekind, von. A new means of detecting alcoholic and simulated states of coma, 294.
Weeks, S. H. Hydronephrosis supposed to be ovarian tumor, 507.
Wescott (Philadelphia). Mediastinal tumor, 337.
Wetherill, H. G. The ounce troy and the ounce avoirdupois, 143, 167; a simple apparatus for rolling gypsum bandages, 204.
Wharton's Duct. Foreign body in, Cabot, A. T., 606.
White, J. C. An introduction to the study of the influence of diet in the causation and treatment of skin diseases, 258.
Whitmarch, W. Vaccination, 238; Pasteur's treatment, 238.
Whittier, E. N. A dissecting mesenteric aneurism, 446.
Whooping-cough. The pathology and treatment of pertussis, Hagenbach, 17; pertussis and its treatment by resorcin, Moncorvo, 435.
Wife. The doctor's wife, 538.
Williams, C. H. Aseptic cataract extraction, with irrigation, 159: a comparison of some cases of cataract extraction, with and without iridectomy, 202, 205.
Williams, E. T. The many-tailed bandage in fractures about the shoulder, 442.
Williams, F. H. Report on progress in therapeutics, 329, 355.
Williams, H. W. The importance of re-examination as to the accuracy of vision of railroad employees and mariners, 373.
Wood, C. S. Bichloride of mercury: its uses and abuses, 328.
Woodbury, F. Address in medicine, 62.
Worcester, A. The training of nurses in private practice, 193.
Word-blindness. Word-blindness, 563.